Vehicle Standard Specification

The new Altair is unique as a motorhome in the respect that it has no gas in the vehicle. The fridge, cooking and heating/ hot water are all provided by electricity with the added benefit of diesel for heating and hot water. Whilst on mains hook up everything works like a regular motorhome, then when using the motorhome in the wild electrical power is provided through the 12 volt system or mains power provided through the 3kW inverter. This inverter supplies power to all sockets, the induction hob, and the microwave. Power is provided by two 100Ahr lithium batteries which are charged either by the engine when on the move, from the huge 400 Watt solar panels or mains charger.
